The Pearl-Embroidered Garment. Translated from the Chinese, by Charles Carroll, Esq., H.M. Vice-Consul, Fooubow. Phonia -Concluded 1 His friend now saw that he had made a mir

tike, and declared that the matter was all made up by himself. The Soo-chow man, however. had recognized the embroidered garment, and, though he said no more on the subject, yet lost no time in getting home. Arrived there, he LA. said to his wife, "I passed on the mad your father's house, and went in to see how they fared. I found your mother very ill, and wishing much to see you; you had better, therefore, go home and nurse her. I bave already hired a chair for you, and I wish you also to take this letter and give it to your father, it relates to some | whole body—it is BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA. bysiness matters between us." His wife, accordinvly, at once started, and great was her astonishment on arriving at her home, to find that there was not the slightest thing the matter burning, stinging pains of Cancer, destroying with her mother, and that she had not been unwell for some time. They therefore opened the letter she had brought, and found that it with gloomy forebodings of the future—use was a divorce from her husband. Her father. BRISTOL'S SARSAPABILLA. ignorant of the cause, was greatly angered, and went at once to the house of his son-in-law, to ask his reasons for acting as he had done. The officer before thus be greatly bastened. whom the case was brought, happened to be the same man who in the early part of the year bad taken the divorced wife of Lin to be his concubine. Having much business, he was sitting up as late as midnight, examining the particulars of the case which was to be brought for trial on the morrow, and his concubine was standing by his chair. Seeing the name of her former husband, she asked what the case was about, and being informed, she said, with tears running down her checks, "the person accused is a relation of mine, and since he has met with this misfortune, I implore your lordship to save his life, if possible." As he gave her an answer rather against her hopes, she threw herself on her knees, and begged to be allowed to die instead of the accused. "Arise," he answered, "justice must be administered, to-morrow I will exert mysell in the prisoner's behalt." . "If this affair does not end happily," she answered, weeping bitterly, " you will never see me alive again."

When the case come on the next day, the nugistrate said to the sons of the unfortunate old man, "If there are no traces of wounds on your father's body, you must have the flesh taken off and the bones examined, and then the body must be sent to the garden of the Dripping Marshes." The sons, who were very wealthy and respectable people, would have been ashamed thus to desecrate their father's body, and replied; making obeisance, "That our prompt aid, your trouble will go on increasing father's death came about by violence is very evident, what is the use of taking the trouble to examine the body?" Why are you sick? There must be a cause Nature never intended that we should pass, as many do, nearly one-half of our lives in bodily pain. Thus it becomes evident that you have, in some way, broken Nature's laws. Your Sickheidache, your Nervous-headache, your Biliousheadache, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Side, and up under the Shoulder-blades-your Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Flatulency, and Heartburn-your Costiveness, Piles, Sickness at the Stomach-the Pimples, Roughness, and Blotches, on your face, neck, and arms -all these. and many other troubles and feelings of illness. are simply evidences of the fact that you have broken the laws on which Nature bases the bodily ease, comfort, health and strength of the human family; and the chances are as a hundred to one, that unless your system gets and gradually getting worse, until it is beyond then, is to obtain the proper remedy-something that will cure safely, and not by violent action or corroding influence jeopardize the health it is intended to restore. There is such medicine—perfectly safe for the weakest and most delicate, yet powerful enough for the strongest—searching out every atom of diseased or deprayed matter, and expelling or neutralizing it-giving wonderful tone and strength to the stomach, vigor to the liver, and regularity to the bowels; -need we say that this medicine
